

A murder that divides a whole city

Alex Pohl

Hotspot

[Heißes Pflaster]

A case for Hanna Seiler and Milo Novic – Crime novel

Penguin Verlag

480 pages

Format 13,5 x 20,6 cm

March 2020

Alex Pohl has had all manner of different jobs before his bestselling books captured a large audience – the number of copies sold of thrillers he writes under the pseudonym L.C. Frey is regularly six-figured. 2019 saw the publication of Icy Days, volume 1 of his new crime series featuring the investigative team of Hanna Seiler and Milo Novic.

A politician is found dead on the shores of a lake to the south of Leipzig. To begin with it looks like suicide, but clues at the scene of the crime make investigators Hanna Seiler and Milo Novic have their doubts. The dead man's involvement in social issues had made him many enemies, including a building developer with contacts in right-wing circles.

Seiler and Novic quickly find themselves under pressure – even their superior is suddenly against them. Not until it is almost too late do the two detectives realise that behind the scenes far more dangerous powers are pursuing a perfidious plan ...

Press

"Exciting! Tatort fans won't be able to put this book down."
Inge Löhnig