

"Highly topical and absolutely captivating!" Bernhard Aichner

Benedikt Gollhardt
Siegfried Line
[Westwall]
Thriller

Penguin Verlag
496 pages
Format 13,5 x 20,6 cm
March 2019

Benedikt Gollhardt, born in 1966, is a scriptwriter. He made a name for himself with series such as Turkish for Beginners and Danni Lowinski. With Siegfried Line, his thriller debut, Benedikt Gollhardt has picked up the general feeling of today that the borders between good and evil are becoming blurred.

Apparently by sheer coincidence police trainee Julia meets the attractive Nick. After a night together she discovers that he lied about his name and has a huge swastika tattooed on his back. When under shock Julia tells her father about it, the seriously ill man gets panicky and implores her to keep a low profile for a while. But Julia wants to know the truth: what plans does Nick have for her? And why is her father so frightened for her?

Julia starts investigating off her own bat and follows a clue that takes her to the depths of the remote Eifel woods and finally to the World War II defensive line, the Siegfried Line. And to her parents' dark past ...

Press

"Dramatic and highly topical! An absolutely captivating thriller debut!" Bernhard Aichner

"A blockbuster in book form [...], the film version of which I can already see before me." Buchmarkt