

Why friends make life so much more colourful, beautiful and exciting

Heike Abidi, Ursi Breidenbach
A True Friend Is Like a Bra

[Eine wahre Freundin ist wie ein BH]
She supports you, never leaves you hanging and is close to your heart

Penguin Verlag
304 pages
Format 11,8 x 18,7 cm
June 2020

The linguist Heike Abidi lives in south-west Germany with her husband, son and dog. She is a freelance advertising copywriter, a novelist, and a YA and children's author. Ursi Breidenbach loves travelling and adores soaking in the atmosphere of places she visits – and this, of course, also includes the local food. When she happens to be at home she writes not only entertaining non-fiction books and short stories but above all wonderful love stories.

Without them, we'd be lost: A friend is an adviser, a confidante, your favourite person, your most honest critic, and someone you can always talk to. You can laugh and cry with her, talk all night, or just sit in silence. No matter how much your circumstances change, from infancy to old age friends are simply indispensable. With them, life is more beautiful, colourful and exciting – sometimes also crazier, stormier and utterly nerve-wracking, but certainly never dull. Thank God they exist!

A True Friend is Like a Bra will bring a smile to your face – the perfect present for all those wonderful women in our lives.