

Let's give our best for a better world!

Professor Dr. Harald Lesch, Klaus Kamphausen
If Not Now, Then When?
[Wenn nicht jetzt, wann dann?]
Acting for a world we want to live in

Penguin Verlag
368 pages
6 b/w illustrations 63 colour illustrations
Format 15,0 x 22,7 cm
September 2018
with numerous illustrations and diagrams

Harald Lesch is a professor of theoretical astrophysics at the Institute of Astronomy and Astrophysics of the University of Munich, a specialist in astrophysics in the DFG (German Research Organisation) and a member of the German Astronomical Society. He has his own television show.

Klaus Kamphausen is a journalist and documentary filmmaker.

No matter where you look, something seems to be burning – the human race has set a dramatic climate change in motion; people and nature are being ruthlessly exploited; economic goals are all that count in life, society is split. Everywhere we are floundering in a quagmire of paralysing contradictions. Perplexity is spreading. What can we do, what can each one of us do?

We have no time to waste, say Harald Lesch and Klaus Kamphausen. Using a myriad of examples they demonstrate how we can cope with contradictions. With such prominent experts as Ottmar Edenhofer, Karen Pittel and Ernst Ulrich Weizsäcker they also discuss approaches to a solution, possible courses of action and ideas for a fruitful coexistence. A wake-up call and a book of encouragement!