Jessica Samuel, coach, kinesiologist, and systemic counsellor, provocatively accompanies women on their way to their feminine power. After several rough relationship dramas, the author finally learned to love herself and is now happily married to a former ex.

Heartache is not worth it ... Or maybe it is? Every third single woman believes she is alone only because she gets involved with men who are unwilling to commit. The truth is, when a man loses interest in you, you've already long lost interest in yourself.

This book will put an end to the hard times in relationships and prepare you for true love. Because she who radiates love will attract love. A humorous book with many case studies from the author's everyday life and coaching experiences.

- To a fulfilling love relationship through self-acceptance
- Only you can make you happy
