

"Hendrik Berg pulls readers into an abyss." buecher.de

Hendrik Berg
Black Mudflats
[Schwarzes Watt]
A North Sea crime story

Goldmann Taschenbuch
368 pages
Format 12,5 x 18,7 cm
March 2018

Hendrik Berg, born in 1964, studied history in Hamburg and Madrid and worked as a journalist and advertising copywriter. He has been earning his living since 1996 with writing screenplays. www.hendrik-berg.de

Ina from Cologne is holidaying with her family on the North Sea coast. While returning from the beach she is overtaken by her past: she is certain she has seen the killer of her sister who was murdered twenty years previously.

Inspector Krumme and his young colleague Pat from the Husum crime squad start investigating and soon find out who Pat has seen: Pastor Jonas Hartung, a highly respected and popular man, a pillar of the community. Krumme does what he does best – he trusts his gut feeling and not the available evidence. As yet he does not realise what deep abysses the case is going to lead him to ...