

An island community shut in by the cold with a murderer in their midst ...

Hendrik Berg
Icy Fog
[Eisiger Nebel]
A North Sea crime story

Goldmann Taschenbuch
352 pages
Format 12,5 x 18,7 cm
March 2020

Hendrik Berg, born in 1964, studied history in Hamburg and Madrid and worked as a journalist and advertising copywriter. He has been earning his living since 1996 with writing screenplays.

www.hendrik-berg.de

A cold spell descends on the North Frisian coast – and it is bringing worse things than snow and ice. The gruesomely mutilated body of an unknown man is hauled out of the water in Husum harbour.

Inspector Theo Krumme and his colleague Pat start their investigations. Clues take them to a small village on the peninsula of Eiderstedt, the inhabitants of which stick together. And when the icy fog gathers over the dike, Krumme and Pat have to protect the village community from a ruthless murderer ...