Claus-Peter Hutter, born in 1955, is the president of the NatureLife International foundation and the author of numerous books and publications on environment and consumer-related subjects. He has been in charge of award-winning and internationally acclaimed nature and environmental protection projects as well as various environment campaigns such as for the BUND ecology group and the EuroNatur foundation he co-founded. Hutter's main job is running an Academy for Nature and Environment Protection.

A once-in-a-century storm, a once-in-a-century flood, a once-in-a-century drought – extreme weather events are happening on a yearly basis. Parched ground, high waters, avalanches of mud, insect plagues – all this has long ceased to be something that only happens in distant countries. Yet they are but harbingers of what is to come.

Claus-Peter Hutter compellingly demonstrates how far developments have got and what we have to expect in the coming years. This is an appeal to those responsible in public administration, politics and business to at last slow the process down; it is also a plan of action of what each one of us can and must do to prepare ourselves for all these changes in the best possible way.

- For his commitment to environmental protection Claus-Peter Hutter has been honoured with the Order of Merit of the Federal Republic of Germany
