Hera Lind, born in 1957, studied German language and literature, music, and theology. She was working as a singer when her first novel A Man for Every Key became a sensational bestseller. This novel was followed by many more, among them The Super Woman and The Champagne Diet. With her novels based on true stories she took the Spiegel bestseller list by storm.

As a widely travelled opera singer and mother of two, Ella Herbst has learnt to improvise. Children, career, kitchen – no problem, just a matter of organisation. Then suddenly it all comes to an end. Her archrival is singing on the stage, her bank accounts have been raided, and her better half has made off. Without a safety net, Ella starts a new life and is, for the first time ever, really happy.
