

A declaration of love to magic, New York and love itself

Christoph Marzi
The Wondrous Story of Faye Archer
[Die wundersame Geschichte der Faye Archer]

Heyne Taschenbuch
384 pages
Format 13,5 x 20,6 cm
August 2013

Rights sold to:
Italy (Tre60)

Christoph Marzi, born in 1970, studied economics education and began teaching at an economics secondary school. He has been writing fantasy stories for many years and was awarded the Deutsche Phantastik Prize for the best debut novel.

www.christophmarzi.de

"Stories are like melodies!" It is with these words that Alex Hodden charms the young bookseller Faye Archer from the very first moment. When he forgets his sketch book in her shop, Faye does something completely untypical of her: she writes to Alex on Facebook, and a few short chats develop into a moving love story. But then Faye discovers that Alex is hiding a secret that sounds so incredible that it can't really be true, and Faye has to decide whether her love for Alex is strong enough to share this secret...

For all readers of One Day, The Time Traveller's Wife and Water for the Elephants.

Press

"Christoph Marzi is a wonderful writer who makes us forget the world around us." Bild am Sonntag

Also available:

Grimm [Grimm], 2010

Lyra [Lyra], 2009

Fabula [Fabula], 2007

Nimmermehr [Nevermore], 2007

The Ancient Metropolis Series:

Vol. 1: Lycidas [Lycidas], 2004

Sold to: Italy (Armenia), Japan*, The Netherlands (Luitingh-Sijthoff), Romania*, Russia (Olma), Serbia*

Vol. 2: Lilith [Lilith], 2005

Sold to: Italy (Armenia), The Netherlands (Luitingh-Sijthoff), Romania*, Russia (Olma)

Vol. 3: Lumen [Lumen], 2006
Sold to: Italy (Armenia)
Vol. 4: Somnia [Somnia], 2008
*rights available again

Penguin
Random House
Verlagsgruppe

For more information please visit www.randomhouse.de