James A. Sullivan was born in West Point in 1974 and grew up in Germany. Even while studying in Cologne he and Bernhard Hennen embarked on the adventure of together writing The Elves. With Nuramon he has now produced his first own novel.

"This is the ending of one journey and the beginning of another." Thus ends the story of Noroelle, Farodin and Nuramon in the bestselling epic on The Elves by Bernhard Hennen; but for Nuramon, the last elf in the world of humans, it is also a new beginning. Rejected by his great love, separated from his best friend and stranded on a strange continent, Nuramon sets out on the biggest adventure of his life – an adventure packed with intrigue, danger and magic...

A breath-taking epic: James A. Sullivan at last tells the tale of the figure most enshrouded in myth in fantastic literature.
