Ingo Oschmann's live programmes, books and performances in shows such as NightWash, Quatsch Comedy Club or Genial daneben have made him familiar to a wide audience as a comedian, conjuror, author, presenter and actor. Between performances and whenever he otherwise has time he sets out and rediscovers the world through geocaching.

The new mass movement known as geocaching shows that being outside is not only good for you but can also give you a lot of fun. In our country alone there are some 300,000 hidden treasures, known as caches, which are waiting to be found with the help of a GPS receiver and online clues. Alone, with the whole family or bowling club – no matter, the enthusiastic outdoor treasure hunter Ingo Oschmann entertainingly and clearly shows how even the biggest couch potato can turn into a true Indiana Jones.
