Vivian Weigert, born in 1950, is a homeopath, osteopath, and experienced parent-infant consultant. While working at a counselling centre for natural childbirth and parenthood, she supported families in all matters relating to pregnancy, birth, and infancy. She has imparted this experience through her many self-help guides, which have been translated into 15 languages. She now lives in Greece.

The baby consultation: here is quick help for the baby's first year. From her many years of consulting experience, Vivian Weigert is familiar with any question young parents might have, and has found that there are often surprisingly simple solutions for frequent crying, colic, diaper rash, other skin irritations, the first cold, and many other complaints.

With illustrative case studies and many concrete tips, the author reveals how parents can provide help for their baby – and themselves. Included are home remedies plus homeopathic and osteopathic methods for providing safe and gentle ways towards a healthy, contented baby.
