

Facts about the Bible for children age 8+

Why Mustn't Adam and Eve Eat Any Apples?

[Warum dürfen Adam und Eva keine Äpfel essen?]
Children's questions about the Bible, answered by experts

Kösel Sach-/Fachbuch
144 pages
Format 16,5 x 24,0 cm
November 2014
With many colour illustrations

Albert Biesinger (b. 1948) was a professor of religious education at Tübingen University until 2014. He is a sought-after speaker both at home and abroad, and the author of popular books on religious education within the family, and on new ways of preparing for first communion.

Helga Kohler-Spiegel (b. 1962) is a professor of religious education at the Vorarlberg Pedagogical Institute in Feldkirch. She is also a psychotherapist, with a special interest in children and adolescents having to deal with difficult situations.

Simone Hiller (b. 1983) teaches religion, German and politics at a technical college. She was a research assistant in the Religious Education department at Tübingen University until 2014.

The world wasn't made in seven days, so why does the Bible say it was? How was Jonah able to survive three days inside the whale? How did Moses conjure away the water of the sea? Did Jesus have to go to school? Why did Jesus have to die? Did God write the Bible?

These are just a few of the many questions well-known theologians have answered; charmingly illustrated, vividly written and with lots of astute explanations for inquisitive children and their parents.

Penguin
Random House
Verlagsgruppe

For more information please visit www.randomhouse.de