

Explosive, fast-paced, nail-biting suspense

Christian v. Ditfurth
Ultimatum
[Ultimatum]
Thriller

C. Bertelsmann
448 pages
Format 13,5 x 21,5 cm
August 2019

Christian von Ditfurth, born in 1953, is a historian freelancing as a writer in Berlin. His most recent publications include not only non-fiction books and thrillers, but also crime novels featuring the historian Josef Maria Stachelmann, which are also published in France, Spain and Israel.

www.cditfurth.de

Berlin in autumn 2019: the Chancellor's husband has been abducted. The abductors make unfulfillable demands. A German government won't be blackmailed. Or will it?

The abductors are serious, send a severed hand to the police station. The apparatus of power is paralysed by shock, but de Bodt manages to free Dr. Süß. Yet this is only the beginning of a game of cat-and-mouse. In France the President's wife is abducted ...

Inspector Eugen de Bodt and his team are facing a virtually insoluble task.