Wilhelm Nünnerich had many jobs before he started inventing stories. Soon he wrote for the highly acclaimed children's series on television "The Show with the Mouse" and other TV and radio magazines. He composed musicals, wrote screen-plays and radio plays which he produced for the TV channel WDR. His radio serial "The Unsinkable Three" has been broadcasted for nearly 25 years, several times weekly on the WDR children's radio channel KIRAKA and the TV channel BR.

Pirate captain Flitscheye has just had to throw his mutinous crew overboard from the "Stormy Hell" when his ship is rammed twice: first by a gigantic cauldron with a weedy fellow in it and, a little later, by a wooden plank with a plump guy sitting on it paddling frantically with a soup ladle. "Highly pirate-like!" Captain Flitzeye pronounces. Bursting with curiosity, he takes them aboard ... At present the pirate captain doesn't have the faintest suspicion of the crazy and exciting adventures the three of them will have together ...
