

Curtain up for a wonderful novel about happiness, second chances and a whole lot of movie theatre!

Marie Adams
Happiness Tastes of Popcorn
[Glück schmeckt nach
Popcorn]
Novel

Blanvalet TB
320 pages
Format 11,8 x 18,7 cm
November 2017

Marie Adams has already published novels under another name about coping with chaotic family life and making sure that after many years love will survive the daily rut. All the greater is her pleasure at bringing lovers together in an almost magical way – after all, she knows from her own experience how irrationally fortune sometimes works.

Martha runs a small but prestigious arthouse cinema frequented by all manner of intellectuals, film critics and cineastes. Like the majority of her guests, she does not believe in happy endings. After all, that sort of thing doesn't happen in real life.

When Martha's staff of one and best friend Susanna becomes pregnant and moves away for reasons of love, she gives the young film student Erik a chance. Before long, however, he starts driving her round the bend with his optimism. He works at his feel-good debut not only behind the scenes but would also like to convince Martha that perfect happiness is possible away from the screen ...