

When the daffodils are in flower it is time for thoughts to turn to love ...

Clara Jensen
Daffodil Dreams
[Osterglockenträume]
Novel

Blanvalet TB
320 pages
Format 11,8 x 18,7 cm
March 2020

Clara Jensen spent many years working as an editor for various print media, but is now a successful freelance author. Her favourite season is spring, and every year at Easter she goes to the North Sea, where she lets the wind blow the cobwebs away.

As the black sheep in the family, Nella would like to do all sorts of things at Easter – except travel to some dump on the North Sea where Grandpa Otto wants everyone to meet. The whole family all together? It can only end up in stress.

But the hale and hearty pensioner insists. After all, there is a juicy family secret he wants to let out at last. There is no way Nella can avoid her narrow-minded big sister Karen. And the encounter with Hauke, her childhood boyfriend, only makes everything worse, for the plump little boy has turned into a decidedly attractive vet. They hit it off really well together. The only trouble is, Hauke is already in a relationship ...